How to Rock Your Board Exams?

Admit Card: Double-check your admit card before heading to the exam center.

Stationery: Bring pens, pencils, erasers, sharpeners, ruler, and a geometry box. Ensure working pens with sufficient ink and carry spares.

Water bottle and wrist watch: Bring a transparent water bottle for hydration and a wrist watch to monitor time; avoid digital watches which may not be permitted.

Arrive Early at the Examination Center: Arrive before your admit card's reporting time for smooth security checks and room location.

Read the Instructions carefully: Read the instructions of the paper carefully to know the format, marking and special guidelines. Ask the invigilator for any doubts about instructions.

Manage your Time: Assign time for each section/question based on allotted marks and adhere to it for effective time management.

Don't Panic: If you find the paper difficult, remember that everyone else is likely feeling the same way. Stay focused, do your best, and don't let anxiety take over.

Start with your Strengths: Start with your strongest section/question to boost confidence for tougher parts.

Answer clearly and neatly: Write neatly, use headings, subheadings, and bullets for clarity and fetching more marks. Start with margins on both sides. This sets a structured format for your answers.

Don't spend too much time on one question: If a question is challenging or time-consuming, move on and revisit it later if possible. Avoid getting stuck on a single question.

Use of HB pencil: HB pencils produce a relatively dark and easily readable mark. Try to use HB pencils while making diagrams in the exam.

Attempt all questions: Even if unsure, attempt all questions; there is no negative marking in CBSE exams.

SELF ASSESSMENT SHEET

Self-assessment plays a crucial role in exam preparation and offers several advantages:

- ❑ Enhanced Self-awareness: Self-assessment sheets help students gain a deeper understanding of their strengths and weaknesses across various subjects. Specific feedback on their performance provides valuable insights into areas of excellence and those that require improvement.
- ❑ Focused Study: These sheets provide clear guidance to students on where to direct their efforts. Identifying which questions to review, reattempt, or practice allows for more efficient and purposeful study sessions.
- ❑ Targeted Improvement: By categorizing questions into different categories (e.g., Easy, Revise, Reattempt), students can concentrate on areas that require the most attention. This targeted approach can result in significant improvements in their comprehension and performance.
- ❑ Motivation: Self-assessment sheets serve as a source of motivation for students. Observing their progress and understanding the steps needed for improvement can boost their motivation to work harder and achieve better results.
- ❑ Reduced Exam Anxiety: Having a clear understanding of their preparation progress helps reduce exam-related anxiety. Students feel more confident when they know what aspects to focus on, leading to a calmer and more effective exam experience.
- ❑ Time Management: Self-assessment sheets aid students in managing their study time more effectively. They can allocate more time to areas requiring extensive revision or reattempt while spending less time on topics they have already mastered.

Self evaluation Instruction: After completing the test, evaluate it using the provided explanations. Use only a pencil to mark the evaluations (allowing for revisions and reattempts). Record the marks obtained in the Marks section and provide remarks in the Remarks column.

Remarks abbreviations:

- ❑ Easy (E): Use for questions that you should find straightforward, indicating a good understanding and correct answers.
- ❑ Revise (R): Assign to questions where your response contains minor errors or gaps in understanding, suggesting the need for topic review.
- ❑ Reattempt (RA): Use for questions with incorrect responses, significant misconceptions, or a lack of understanding. Students receiving this remark should revisit the topic thoroughly, seek additional help if necessary, and attempt similar questions to enhance their grasp of the concept.

CHAPTER

The Last Lesson

—Alphonse Daudet

- ☐ The story is set in Alsace, a territory that Prussia has acquired where the German language is being suppressed in favor of French.
- ☐ The protagonist, Franz, is late for school and fears being scolded by his teacher, Monsieur Hamel.
- ☐ He notices that the village is unusually quiet, and the bulletin board at the town hall has a new proclamation.
- ☐ Upon reaching school, Franz finds it filled with students of all ages and even some villagers.
- ☐ Monsieur Hamel announces that it is the last French lesson they'll have, as an order has come to teach only German in the schools of Alsace and Lorraine.
- ☐ The news shocks Franz and the villagers present.
- ☐ M. Hamel mentions how people of Alsace have always put off learning.
- ☐ He speaks passionately about the importance of the French language and how it's the most beautiful language in the world.
- ☐ He emphasizes that language is the key to a community's identity and freedom.
- ☐ Franz regrets not valuing his lessons and the French language more when he had the chance.
- ☐ M. Hamel delivers his last lesson with emotion, even writing "Vive La France!" on the blackboard.
- ☐ As the church clock strikes twelve, the lesson ends, marking the end of an era in Alsace.
- ☐ M. Hamel, who has taught in that school for forty years, leaves the schoolroom for the last time.
- ☐ The story underscores the impact of political decisions on common people and the significance of one's language and cultural identity.

2

The Lost Spring (Stories of Stolen Childhood)

—Anees jung

"Sometimes I find a Rupee in the garbage"

- ☐ Saheb is introduced as a barefoot boy roaming the streets of Seemapuri.
- ☐ Seemapuri, a place on the periphery of Delhi, houses ragpickers who migrated from Dhaka.
- ☐ The ragpickers live in makeshift huts with no sewage, drainage, or running water.
- ☐ For these ragpickers, garbage is gold; it's their daily bread, even if it means a meal that is earned out of rotting garbage.
- ☐ Saheb's family, like others, migrated to Seemapuri in hopes of a better livelihood.
- ☐ The writer, Anees Jung, gives money to Saheb, pondering on the irony of his name which means "lord" in Persian.
- ☐ Later, Saheb is found working at a tea stall, giving up his scavenging, losing his carefree look.
- ☐ Earning an income takes away the carefree look from Saheb's face but gives him the joy of owning real tennis shoes.
- ☐ The story captures the contrast between the name, which suggests wealth and the reality of poverty.
- ☐ Saheb's loss of freedom and innocence is the price he pays for his new job.
- ☐ The narrative provides a commentary on the harsh realities of urban poverty.
- ☐ Despite challenges, there is a sense of contentment and hope in Saheb's life.

3

A Thing of Beauty

—John Keats

- ☐ A beautiful thing is a constant source of joy and lasts forever.
- ☐ Its loveliness increases with time and never fades away.
- ☐ It provides a shelter and comfort in difficult times, like shade on a hot day.
- ☐ Such beautiful things include the sun, the moon, old and young trees, and daffodils.
- ☐ The beauty of these objects provides us with tranquil feelings and sleep filled with sweet dreams.
- ☐ They also bring robust health and peaceful breathing.
- ☐ The Earth is filled with numerous beautiful objects which act as an endless fountain pouring goodness onto us.
- ☐ However, there are moments of despair and negativity when dark thoughts cloud our minds.
- ☐ But the existence of beautiful things helps us to find solace and keeps our spirits alive.
- ☐ Thus, a thing of beauty, with its everlasting impact, removes the pall of our dark spirits and is a blessing for us.

SECTION - A

READING SKILLS

(22 marks)

1. Read the following text.

(12 m)

1. If you enjoy watching crime shows on TV, you know that fingerprints play a large role in identifying people. But you might be surprised to find out that using fingerprints for identification is not a new science. In fact, it is very old - dating back at least as far as 1885-1913 B.C.E. In Babylon, when people agreed to a business contract, they pressed their fingerprints into the clay in which the contract was written. Thumbprints have also been found on clay seals from ancient China.
2. In 14th century Persia, which is now Iran, a government doctor recognized that all fingerprints are different. In 1684, a British doctor, Nehemiah Grew, spoke about the ridged surfaces of the fingers. In 1686, a professor of anatomy (the study of the structure of the human body) named Marcello Malpighi, wrote about the ridges and loops in fingerprints. Malpighi's work was considered so important that a layer of skin found on the fingertips was named after him. This layer of skin is called the Malpighian layer. Although scientists had studied fingerprints, the value of fingerprinting in the identification of individuals did not become clear until later.
3. Sir William James Herschel is generally thought to be the first European to realize that fingerprints were unique to each person. In his work as chief magistrate in the Hoogly district in Jungipoor, India, Herschel asked people to put their handprints on contracts. Herschel believed that personal contact with the contracts made people more likely to honor their commitments, or to keep their promises. As he looked at more and more handprints, he began to see that all the handprints were different. He started to believe that fingerprints were unique, which means they are all different from each other, and permanent, which means that they do not ever change. To prove that they never change, Herschel kept track of his own fingerprints over his entire lifetime.
4. Dr. Henry Faulds, a British surgeon at a Japanese hospital, began studying the furrows(also called ridges) on fingertips in the 1870s. He published an article in a scientific journal about the use of fingerprints as a tool in identification. He also devised, or invented, a system of classifying fingerprints. He wrote Charles Darwin about his findings, but Darwin was getting too old to work on the findings. So, he promised to pass the information to his cousin, Sir Francis Galton. Using Henry Faulds' findings, Galton published a major book on classifying fingerprints based on arches, loops, and whirls. His work with Sir Edward R. Henry on fingerprint classification was the basis of a classification system which is still used by law enforcement agencies in English-speaking countries.
5. The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) now uses a variation of the Galton- Henry system. Although the use of fingerprinting in identification originated in Britain, it has been developed in the United States. In 1924, two large fingerprint collections were combined to form the foundation of the Identification Division of the FBI. Within the Identification Division, the Integrated Automated Fingerprint Identification Systems (IAFIS) can search and find fingerprints anywhere in the United States within thirty minutes. The IAFIS can compare results with automated fingerprint systems in countries around the world. The IAFIS has the fingerprints of more than 250 million people on file.
6. About one in six Americans has fingerprints on file with the FBI. But not all the fingerprints are related to criminal investigations. People need to have their fingerprints taken for many other reasons. People have their fingerprints taken for employment, licenses, and adoption. For example, when people want to work for the government in classified, secret jobs, their fingerprints are checked to be sure they do not have a criminal background. When prospective parents adopt a child, their fingerprints are matched against those of all criminals for the safety of the child.

Answer the following questions, based on the passage above.

- (i) Which statement accurately describes the historical use of fingerprints? 1
 - (a) Only used in Persia for identification.
 - (b) Modern science introduced by crime shows.
 - (c) Used in ancient Babylon for business contracts.
 - (d) Commonly used in everyday transactions in ancient China.
- (ii) In approximately 40 words, describe the key contribution of Dr. Henry Faulds to the study of fingerprints. 2
- (iii) Based on Sir William James Herschel's observation, one can deduce that fingerprints are _____. 1
- (iv) What is the implied meaning of the statement, "To prove that they never change, Herschel kept track of his own fingerprints over his entire lifetime"? 1
 - (a) Herschel was obsessive about his findings.
 - (b) Herschel wanted empirical evidence.
 - (c) Fingerprints change as your age.
 - (d) Herschel had doubts about his theory.

- (v) Which of the following represents the clear boundary between professional and personal life, as mentioned in paragraph (3)? 1
- (a) Having a separate workspace at home. (b) Logging off from the work server after office hours.
- (c) Attending team-building activities. (d) Access to office infrastructure.
- (vi) How might the preference of a better work-life balance among remote workers influence corporate policies and incentives? Answer in about 40 words. 2
- (vii) Complete the sentence appropriately: 1
- The similar emphasis on networking opportunities by both WFH enthusiasts and office-goers can be attributed to _____.
- (viii) State TRUE or FALSE. 1
- The title, “Digital Revolution: The Rising WFH Culture Among Modern Professionals”, would be suitable for the passage.

SECTION A

READING SKILLS

(22 marks)

1. Read the following passages.

12

Ours was the marsh country, down by the river, within twenty miles of the sea. My first most vivid and broad impression of the identity of things seems to me to have been gained on a memorable raw afternoon towards evening. The low leaden line beyond was the river; and that the distant savage lair from which the wind was rushing was the sea; and that the small bundle of shivers growing afraid of it all and beginning to cry, was Pip.

“Hold your noise!” cried a terrible voice, as a man started up from among the graves at the side of the bushes. “Keep still, or I’ll make you pay!”

A fearful man, all in coarse grey, with a great iron on his leg. A man with no hat, and with broken shoes, and with an old rag tied round his head. A man who had been soaked in water, and smothered in mud, limped, and shivered, and glared, and growled; and whose teeth chattered in his head as he seized me.

“Tell us your name!” said the man. “Quick! Give it mouth!”

“Pip. Pip, sir.”

“Show us where you live,” said the man. “Point out the place!”

The man, after looking at me for a moment, emptied my pockets. There was nothing in them but a piece of bread which he ate ravenously.

“Now lookee here!” said the man. “Where’s your mother?”

“There, sir!” said I.

He started, made a short run, and stopped and looked over his shoulder.

“Oh!” said he, coming back. Who’s that?” he asked, pointing.

“My sister, sir, —Mrs. Joe Gargery, —wife of Joe Gargery, the blacksmith, sir.”

“Blacksmith, eh?” said he. And looked down at his leg.

After darkly looking at his leg, he came close to me, took me by both arms, and tilted me back as far as he could hold me; so that his eyes looked most powerfully down into mine, and mine looked most helplessly up into his.

“Now lookee here,” he said, “You know what a file and wittles is?”

“Yes, sir.”

After each question he tilted me over a little more, so as to give me a greater sense of helplessness and danger.

“You get me a file.” He tilted me again. “And wittles.” He tilted me again. “You bring ‘em both to me.” I was dreadfully frightened, and so giddy that I clung to him with both hands, and said, “If you would kindly please to let me keep upright, sir, perhaps I shouldn’t be sick, and perhaps I could attend more.”

He did. Then, he held me by the arms, in an upright position, and went on with his terms.
